

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

The paper upon which this edition is printed is made of corn stalks. The paper is what is known as "bond" stock, a much better grade of paper than is ordinarily used for newspaper stock. THE HERALD is the first newspaper in the World to print an edition on corn stalk bond paper.

Well, that's that.

Just out in front again. That's all.

The edition is printed on corn stalk paper as a compliment to the farmers of Putnam county, who just now are engaged in a Farm Bureau membership drive.

With the production of corn stalk paper the cornstalk takes its place in America's industrial world.

"The Paper That Does Things," that's what Eugene Cadou, Indiana Manager of the International News Service, of Indiana, said in a telephone message to "The Herald" this morning. Mr. Cadou called by long distance telephone to congratulate THE HERALD on its Friday's edition which is printed on Corn Stalk bond paper. The Herald is the first newspaper in the World to print an edition on Corn Stalk Bond paper. Other newspapers have been printed on corn stalk newspaper paper, but not on corn stalk bond. Speaking of THE HERALD as a "Newspaper That Does Things," one of its achievements of the past year is an increase of 600 in its Putnam County circulation—and indications are that this year's increase, judging from the January increase, will be even greater. The Herald is proud to be a leader. The Herald is proud to know that it is the Great Newspaper of Greencastle and Putnam county. The Herald is proud to know that the people of Putnam county are appreciative of its efforts to make it the Best newspaper and we will endeavor to continue improvements in keeping with the advancements of the day.

Just a little chilly this morning, but thank goodness, the old gasoline consumer slept under heavy covers and this morning did not even grumble when called upon to percolate. They say the mercury "hovered" around the zero mark, but what matters that as long as the old buss did not fail to function.

The Weather—Here is hoping for moderation.

If "Brother" Shumaker has any idea of securing a second "pardon" he is getting little encouragement from Governor Leslie. That old boy seems to be "agin" cheating justice by wholesale pardoning of criminals.

Even Indiana's "dry" representatives in Congress are giving the dear "Brother" the "cold shoulder." Look like the Indiana Anti-Saloon league was pretty well up against the proposition of having a leader whom few care to follow.

The Putnam County Farm Bureau is just now putting on its annual membership drive. Every progressive farmer should align himself with this organization; he should put his shoulder to the wheel and fight for the rights that are his and not sit idly by, waiting for someone to do something for him.

Boy, it certainly is too cold for the new derby hats these days.

AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT

RECOMMEND THAT ALL STATE PROPERTY TAXES BE ABOLISHED AND REPLACED BY GENERAL STATE SALES TAX

DURHAM ON COMMITTEE

Agricultural Property Bears Burden Of Taxation While Stocks, Bonds And Monies Escape, Report Says

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31.—(INS)—Creation of a special commission to study taxation with a recommendation that all state property taxes be abolished and replaced by a general state sales tax was suggested to the State Senate today by a special agricultural committee appointed two years ago to study relief for Indiana farmers.

The report also urged the creation of two other commissions. Both also would report to the 1931 state legislature. One would study the state government with a view to develop more efficient methods that would reduce the cost of government, and the other would recodify the criminal procedure of the state courts so as to expedite justice.

The report questions the efficiency of the State income tax proposed by the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation as a means of relieving the tax burden of the farmers.

"It is questionable whether or not an income tax, while adding to the burden of a certain class of people, would very materially lessen the tax burden on property," the report said.

The report was drafted by Senators Alonzo H. Lindsey, Rep. of Kingman, J. Francis Lehard, Dem., of Milan, Andrew Durham, Dem., of Greencastle, and Former Senator J. Monroe Fitch, Rep. of Muncie.

A recommendation that "every taxpayer be required each year to make a complete inventory under oath, of all bonds, notes, monies in bank, etc., that are taxable, and file the same with the county assessor," was one of the most important features of the report.

Agricultural property, which cannot be hidden, bears the burden of taxation while stocks, notes and monies escape taxation, according to the report.

An increase of 50 per cent in the state police force was urged in the report for more adequate rural protection and safeguards should be enacted to take the state police force out of politics.

The report also urged the creation of market highways and less attention to tourist routes.

RIBBONS ARRIVE

Eight ribbons won by Greencastle 4-H Club girls at the Agricultural Conference at Purdue recently, arrived at the office of County Agent R. H. Stevenson, Friday. Through an error a lone ribbon for a 4-H club girl in a neighboring county, also was received at the local office. Greencastle has one of the best 4-H Clubs in the state and the difference in number of ribbons won in the two counties, is evidence of the outstanding work done by the local girls.

Alleging the decision of Judge James P. Hughes was contrary to law and not supported by sufficient evidence, the Ove Gnatt Company of Laporte has filed a motion for a new trial in its suit to enjoin the Indiana State Farm from the manufacture of floral baskets for the general wholesale trade.

Judge Hughes found for the Indiana State Farm in the first trial of the case in the Putnam Circuit court.

The plaintiff also alleges that the court erred in its decision that the Farm Board could fix the prices at which its products could be sold.

The motion for a new trial is said to be the first step in the local action necessary for an appeal to a higher court.

FOUR BANDITS HOLD UP BANK AT FARMERSBURG

ONE MAN WOUNDED BY ROBERT A. MAHAN, TOWN MARSHAL, AS HE LEAVES INSTITUTION

MAN SHOT IS HARRY CREELE

Identification Made By Sheriff Lester Williams—Shot Through Hip—Refuses To Talk

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 1.—(INS)—A wounded member of a bandit gang that robbed the Farmersburg State Bank, 16 miles north of here today and engaged in a gun fight with Robert A. Mahan, town marshal has been identified as Harry Creel, 29, of Terre Haute. Sheriff Lester Williams stated this afternoon. The bandit was shot through the hip, and is in a serious condition. He refuses to talk.

FARMERSBURG, Ind., Feb. 1.—(INS)—One unidentified youthful bandit was seriously wounded in a gun battle that occurred when four robbers held up the Farmersburg State Bank here today.

The three companions of the wounded man escaped in an automobile with several hundred dollars of the bank's funds.

Town Marshal Robert A. Mahan, who happened to be in the bank when three of the robbers entered, fought the gun battle with them after he had first yielded to a demand to "stick 'em up."

The robbers were unable to seize thousands of dollars kept in the vault of the bank because of the presence of mind of Herbert Lathrop, who pretended to have trouble with the combination when the bandits were trying to force him to open the vault.

"I stalled around for a while and then they evidently decided they had better get away with the few hundred dollars they found on the counter," said Lathrop.

"As they were going out of the bank, Marshal Mahan pulled out his revolver and opened fire on them. One of them dropped."

MORE MONEY FROM YOUR DAIRY COWS

Every farmer who is milking dairy cows is interested in increasing his profit and is wondering how this can be brought about. There are only two ways that this can be brought about. That is breeding better cattle and feeding our cows better.

Herd improvement can be brought about the most economical by the use of a good pure bred dairy bull of known ancestry. A bull that has daughters produce no better than their dams possesses no value so far as his hereditary power is concerned. While a bull whose daughters show an increase in butter fat production over their dams, are of real value in improving the herd. A $50 bull that produces daughters no better than their dams returns no interest on your investment while a $500 bull, if he has daughters that produce 75 lbs. of fat more than their dams, figuring on an average herd of ten cows, give an increase of 750 lbs. of fat. Figured at 60c per lb. this gives you $450 or 90 per cent interest on your $500 investment. In purchasing a bull good bulls can be found at a reasonable price. In making a selection the most importance should be given to the production of the dam and Grand Dam rather than the family name or the physical qualifications which the animal may possess.

In feeding the dairy cow certain things should be kept in mind. All cows require a certain amount of a full ration to maintain the body functions. In a good cow 50 percent will be required to maintain her body and 50 per cent for milk production.
If this full ration be reduced 25 per cent she will still require her 50 per cent for body maintenance, leaving only 25 per cent for milk production. All cows do not react the same way or in other words are not profitable dairy cows with these that tend to lay on fat rather than produce milk feed enough to just maintain her body weight while on full flow of milk.

Two classes of feeds are required, namely: concentrates and roughages. Under Putnam County conditions both can be produced on the dairy man's farm. Our roughages are made up of alfalfa, soy bean and clover hay as the most desirable and timothy hay, oat and wheat straw, corn stalks, mixed hay and millet hay, when the others are not available. The concentrates can be made up of corn as the foundation and combined with oats and soy beans, all home grown crops. A few suggested rations are:

When legume hay such as alfalfa,
clover or soy beans is fed, mix corn 4 parts, shelled and finely ground oats, 2 parts coarsely ground or just crushed, and ground soy beans, 1 part.

When mixed hay such as part legume as above and part carbohydrates, mix corn 4 parts shelled and finely ground; oats 3 parts coarsely ground or just crushed, and ground soy beans, 2 parts.

When all the roughage is carbohydrates such as timothy, oat and wheat straw etc., mix 1 part corn ground, 1 part oats ground and 1 part ground soy beans.

The contented cow is the one that produces the most milk, so in order to bring about this condition it will be necessary to give her all the roughage she will consume which will be about 12 pounds when fed in connection with a succulent feed such as ensilage. Thirty pounds of ensilage should be fed to a 1,000 lb.
cow.

In feeding the concentrates feed Jerseys or Guernseys at the rate of 1 pound of feed to each 2 1/2 to 3 1/2
lbs. of milk produced; for Holsteins feed 1 pound of feed for each 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 lbs. of milk produced.

A dairyman in Putnam County following the few suggestions made and using as much as possible his home grown grains will be within the limits of economy and should raise the level of his dairy industry and greatly increase his profits.

DRUGGIST

FARM MANAGEMENT

County Agent R. H. Stevenson has been carrying on in cooperation with the Farm Management Department of Purdue University, a Farm Management project for the past two years and is now starting the third year's work.

This work is carried on throughout the county with farmers who have signified their willingness to keep farm records so that their business may be analyzed at the end of the year to determine the factors that are making money and those that are losing money and the causes. The work required of the farmer is very small and in fact by carrying on the project as outlined and by securing the assistance from the County Agent and the farm management department, he is able to keep a complete and accurate account of his year's business with the minimum amount of effort and time expended. Each co-operator is supplied a simple farm account book furnished free through the courtesy of the First National Bank and Citizens Trust Company of Greencastle. This book is divided into three parts; namely, receipts, expenses and inventory that is to be taken at the beginning and the end of the year. Assistance is given in starting the work. Contact is kept by personal visits of the County Agent and a representative from Purdue throughout the year and at the end of the year assistance is given in closing up the year's record. The record is then taken into Purdue University where a corps of trained workers summarize and work out the factors that have brought about the profit or the loss in the year's business. All the information obtained on the farms is confidential and only the farmer himself sees the results. An average of all the results and of the most profitable farms, is made as a guide for the farmer to measure his own results. The amount of money made is worked out in terms of labor income; that is the amount of money received by the farmer for his year's labor. This figure is arrived at by deducting the total farm expenses from the total farm receipts allowing 5 per cent interest on the total farm investment including land, buildings, livestock, machinery, feeds and supplies and a fair wage for any family labor performed other than by the operator himself.

The results obtained for 1927, the results for 1928 not being available, are quite varied. The labor income ranged from $1,671 to a minus $1,132 with an average of $274.

CORNSTALK PAPER

The closing month of 1928 recorded an event which should go down in history as an important one in the field of printing throughout this and many other countries—the successful manufacture of paper from cornstalks.

This event, unlike many of the big discoveries of the past, has not been what might be termed a "happencence", but is the culmination of many years of experimental work both here and abroad.

The early experimenting in this country did not develop particularly gratifying results and for some years further effort to convert cornstalks into paper was practically abandoned.

In the meantime, Mr. Bela Dörner, a Hungarian chemist, was working on the problem and finally brought his experiments to a successful conclusion.

An American chemist named Frank K. Gardner was traveling in Europe two years ago where by rare chance he met the Hungarian chemist, Dörner, who related to him the successful results that had finally attended his experiments which had been spread over a period of nearly twenty years. He at the same time informed Mr. Gardner of the fact that he had been unsuccessful in getting financial backing in Europe. The import of his story greatly impressed Mr. Gardner who made sufficient investigation while there to satisfy himself as to the validity of the claims made by the Hungarian chemist and immediately upon his return to New York, he was able to interest a New York capitalist, W. Jule Day.

Mr. Day and Mr. Gardner formed a company which promptly closed negotiations with the Hungarian chemist, Dörner, to come to America and bring along his corps of assistants. A test laboratory was established in the spring of 1927 in New Jersey. Dörner's work was closely watched by several American chemists who had themselves tried unsuccessfully to accomplish the same end. They were at first skeptical but Dörner finally convinced them. The experiment work has finally been climaxed by the first mill run of cornstalk paper to come off a paper machine. This was produced by The Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company in early December and then fittingly converted into 250,000 farm journals—The Prairie Farmer issue of December 15th—and distributed to farmers throughout the middle west, heralding to them an event that will perhaps be of greater immediate interest than the same event will be to the printing world.

Nevertheless for several years there has been considerable concern among the users of paper as to just how soon the rapidly diminishing forests would bring us face to face with a serious shortage in wood pulps unless some successful substitute could be found. The development of paper from cornstalks has been the direct outgrowth of this concern regarding our future paper supply.

With the cornstalk pulp industry in its infancy, we do not mean to infer that this source will definitely take care of all our future pulp needs. However, after sufficient time is allowed for organizing pulp mills in the various corn growing centers, no doubt the cornstalk pulp will be quite a factor in the pulp supply.

It is our prediction that time will see further successful developments in the way of pulp production from plants. We discussed this subject some time ago with a chemist friend who claims to have made some paper from a certain plant source which possessed a splendid long fiber well suited for paper making. Beyond what he claims were successful experiments, he, however, never made any effort to commercialize the idea.

Between the time of the establishment of an experimental laboratory in New Jersey in the early part of 1927 and the distribution of the first printed job in the form of an issue of The Prairie Farmer in December, 1928, other events of importance occurred. Chief of these was the establishing early in 1928 at Danville, Ill., of a mill where cornstalk pulp could be manufactured in commercial quantities. The Cornstalk Products Company of Danville produced the pulp from which the Kalamazoo paper mill made this first run of cornstalk paper.

The Cornstalk Products Company's plant at Danville cost $750,000 to build and has been turning out pulp for about three months at the rate of ten tons a day. An additional water supply, soon to be secured, will increase the output of this mill to forty tons a day.

The cornstalk produces a short fibered pulp, considerably shorter than wood, yet oddly enough it makes a paper of very good strength. The first paper made was a 40-pound ma-

TOPS LIST OF BLUE BLOODED SIRES

Jersey Bull With 125 Tested Daughters, Rated King of Dairy Sires.

MEREDITH, N. York, Jan. 31.—The distinction of having more tested daughters than any other Jersey sire in the world now belongs to Meridale Farms of Meredith, N. Y. Dairylike Majesty now has 125 daughters that have official production records which entitle them to entry in the Register of Merit of the American Jersey Cattle Club, New York. This breeders' association has awarded him both a Gold and Silver Medal in recognition of the outstanding records made by his daughters.

Dairylike Majesty is the sire of Dairylike Madcap, the superb producer which holds the national championship for imported Jersey cows. She has two official 365-day records averaging 956.80 lbs. of butterfat and 15,202 lbs. of milk.

The merit of Dairylike Majesty may be judged by the fact that his 125 daughters made records which average 525.85 lbs. of butterfat. The average production of all dairy cows in the United States is 180 lbs. of butterfat, so the daughters of Dairylike Majesty yield about three times as much as the average cow. This is a great achievement when we consider that almost all of his daughters have been tested.

It is to sires of the calibre of Dairylike Majesty that we must look for improvement in the average dairy cattle of the United States. This remarkable bull will exert a profound influence for the better as his blood becomes widely disseminated through his offspring.

chine finish of generally good appearance but considerably harder than the machine finish papers with which we have become familiar and somewhat transparent. The content of this sheet was 16.2-3 per cent wood pulp. Further experience in the use of this pulp will not doubt eliminate what appears to be some minor faults in the first sheet made.

It is said that wood pulp is used in varying proportions in 99 per cent of all paper manufactured—being eliminated only from the better grade bonds.

It is claimed that pulp can be made from the cornstalk in six hours, whereas it would require more expensive machinery and perhaps eighteen hours to reduce wood to pulp and some thirty thousand more gallons of water to each ton.

The buyers of pulp seem to regard the cornstalk pulp as possessing about the same commercial value per ton as wood pulp.

It is cheaper to build a pulp mill in the corn growing centers than to make long hauls of cornstalks to the mills, hence the future will probably see a number of comparatively small pulp mills scattered throughout the corn growing belt.

An acre of corn will produce about 800 pounds of pulp and as there is upwards of 100,000,000 acres of corn-stake in the corn belt practically going to waste each year, a large percentage of this waste will no doubt be converted into profit to the farmer and the printer alike.

LIVE STOCK MARKETING

Every month during the year 1928 has seen a larger percentage of live stock receipts handled by the Indianapolis Producers than was ever handled by this agency for any corresponding month in the past six years of service at cost. This patronage by thinking farmers who are taking the gamble out of their live stock marketing through volume control has resulted in cash earnings for the six years amounting to $381,731.76 on Dec. 1. Of this amount $225,208.58 has been refunded as patronage dividends to members and $49,902.93 has been spent educationally, leaving $106,598.29, the balance on hand December 1st, 1928. Over half of the live stock receipts at the Indianapolis market arrive by motor truck and nearly 30 per cent of the total receipts are sold cooperatively by the Producers.

STOMACH TROUBLE QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

Eating Caused More Harm Than Good; But Now Every Source Of Misery Is Permanently Banished

MRS. MARGARET PENROD

"Had I but known of Konjola sooner, it would have saved me a great deal of suffering and agony because when I did take it, it permanently removed all my ailments," said Mrs. Margaret Penrod, 526 East Milton street, South Bend, Indiana. "I had been suffering for many months from indigestion that made my meals more of a torture than a pleasure. Food simply refused to digest-forming gasses that bloated me frightfully. Heartburn and belching spells were common and frequent. Severe pains came over me all the time and although I tried medicine after medicine, they all failed to give me the slightest relief."

"I decided upon Konjola and it certainly proved the medicine I always needed. Right from the start I was benefitted. As I continued the treatment, I rapidly got better and today, I hardly know that I was ever in poor health. I eat three hearty meals a day—digest and relish every bite of food. New strength and energy are mine. I have heard that Konjola is a medicine with more than a million friends. Well, it certainly has a lifelong friend in me." Konjola is sold in Greencastle at Owl drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

CROSS COUNTRY FLIGHT
CULMINATES IN MARRIAGE

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Ruth B. McConnell, 26, today was the wife of Kenneth B. Coulter, 43, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., the man from whom she was reported to have fled in a cross country chase by train and airplane that attracted national attention.

Mrs. Coulter became the wife of a millionaire, for her husband, although 43 years old and a cripple for 20 years, owns large dairy properties in New York and is worth more than $5,000,000.

Flu Wanes, But Authorities
Fear New Wave, As in 1918

Public health officials now report a decline in the number of new flu cases. They urge everybody, however, to keep on taking precautions against colds for fear of a second and more severe flu wave, as in 1918.

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu-attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here because it is applied externally and so can be used freely at the first sign of every cold with no risk of upsetting a delicate digestion. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.—Adv.
